

FOREIGN NEWS.

ARRIVAL OF THE NEW YORK.

NO BATTLE YET.

NEW YORK. Steamer New York arrived at this port to-day from Southampton 17th. She brings London dates of her day of sailing.

No battle had been fought in Italy up to the 16th.

The Emperor Napoleon and the King of Sardinia had fixed the headquarters at Alessandria, and had already arrived there.

All Sardinian vessels in Austrian ports are to be seized. An Austrian was withdrawn from Bobbio.

The inhabitants of Canobio had resolutely refused to supply the Austrian frigate Radetzki with provisions, and she was obliged to sail without them.

LIVERPOOL, May 16. Breadstuffs firm. Wheat has an advancing tendency, principally on French red.

ENGLAND. The Queen reviewed the troops at Aldershot on the 16th. Count Persigny, the new French Minister, arrived in London on the 14th. Prince Gortschakoff also arrived.

FRANCE. The Paris correspondence of the London Times says, the confidence in the success of the army in Italy is so great that preparations will soon be made at Notre Dame for the Te Deum, in thanksgiving for a great victory. It is expected to be announced next week.

All officers of the regiment of aspers, to be commanded by Prince Napoleon, left Paris on the 14th for Toulon.

A train of siege artillery had also left for Italy.

It is rumored that arms have been sent to Hungary, and that the Hungarians abroad are employed in fomenting insurrection in their country.

It is reported that the Emperor Napoleon, before leaving Paris, addressed a letter to Queen Victoria, repeating his promise to take no step during the war, compromising the interests of England.

AUSTRIA. The government loan of $25,000 is to be at 5 per cent., payable in silver, and will be issued at 70. There is nothing further from the seat of war.

PIEDMONT. An official bulletin of the 14th says the Austrians withdrew to day from Bobbio, but a second and still stronger reconquering force had been pushed forward, to the walls of Vercelli.

The Emperor Napoleon, with Marshal Canrobert, rode through the streets of Alexandria on horseback, and they were everywhere received with great demonstrations of joy.

GERMANY. A dispatch from Berlin says the Diet was closed on the 14th by the Prince Regent in person, who, in a speech, said that Prussia was determined to maintain the balance of power in Europe, and stand up for security, protection, and the national interest of Germany, and expected all German conservative powers to stand firmly by her side in the fulfillment of that mission.

MARSEILLES, May 13. The correspondent of the Times says: The past fortnight in Hong Kong has been a dull one in every way. Trade at Canton has suffered from the exactions of the Mandarin and the inroads of the rebels. His Excellency Baron Gros is still here, but is expected soon to proceed to France from Cochinchina. We learn that the French have taken Saigon, the citadel of which appears to have been a place of considerable strength. A garrison was left there, and Admiral de Geaumont was about to leave for Touran.

The American frigates Mississippi and Germantown, were at Japan.

BIRMINGHAM, Saturday, 14. The Times contains the following: An American review of the probable effect of the present European complications on the shipping trade is given in the following extract of a Circular, issued a short time back, by Oakford & Co., a firm in London connected with the United States: "The effect of the Italian war upon the shipping interests is anxiously discussed, and it is admitted that American ships will have a decided preference on long voyages, especially for return cargoes from India, China and Australia. The wisest and best informed are powerless to predict whether three months hence England will be at peace or war, and as cargoes shipped from India under orders transmitted to-day cannot reach Europe in less than six months, the risk of sending them in British bottoms must for a time pass into the hands of Americans, especially for shipments of gold. Many inquiries are already made for American ships to load in the East Indies."

IMPROVEMENTS.

We are glad to notice that workmen are engaged in grading, and ridding our beautiful Common of many of the large rocks which have hitherto graced it in numerous places. And now, why can we not then a "Tree Association," in operation here? We have noticed in some of our Massachusetts exchanges, that in a great many places in that State, Associations have been formed, for the purpose of procuring and setting out Trees in public places. What a beautiful appearance our village would present, were these four or five hundred more Shade Trees in it. Will not the Ladies interest themselves in this enterprise? We should be sure of seeing something done, were they to make a move in the matter, throwing out, as they do, such peculiar inducements, that it is next to impossible to resist their importunities.

A BEAUTIFUL RESIDENCE.—Last evening we visited, by invitation, the residence of Dr. N. T. True, situated at the head of Broad St., in this village. Through the politeness of the Dr. and Lady we were shown over his grounds and through his house. The view from the front windows is magnificent; from the house to the river it seems one long continuous avenue, both sides being ornamented with shade trees. The Dr's Cabinet is quite a curiosity, the shells and minerals exceed in number and beauty anything of the kind we have ever seen. We don't wonder that the Dr. is so seldom absent from home, we should never wish to leave, had we so beautiful a home.

We shall avail ourselves of their kind invitation to call often, considering it, as it really is, one of the finest locations in Bethel.

We notice that the summer travel to this place has already commenced. We anticipate a larger number of visitors than usual. No better place for invalids can be found.

Our enterprising Landlord, Mr. Chandler, has secured a large number of rooms in private residences in some of the best locations in the village, to accommodate those visiting the place, and every exertion will be made to render their visit pleasant and agreeable.

We understand that the Norway Light Infantry, contemplate making a trip to Bethel the middle of this month. It is a fine company, and we believe our citizens will show them all possible attention, to make their encampment here a pleasant one.

The Summer Term of Gould's Academy, commenced on Tuesday, with a goodly number of Students from abroad. The School promises to be much fuller than usual at this season of the year.

The rumor that the health of Friend P.— was in the decline, consequent upon his close application to severe and arduous duties, is happily without foundation. The Dr. thinks the rumor must have had its origin in the fact, that it being his first exertion for many years, it operated rather seriously at first.

The New Haven Palladium says that propositions have been made by the Austrian government for four hundred thousand dollars, worth of the New Haven Volcanic Repeating Rifles, or for enough to arm a body of 10,000 troops.

Fix.—We learn that the Dwelling House of Mr. George Barry, at West Paris, was entirely consumed by fire with its contents, on Tuesday last. Loss, about $600.

The Telegraph has announced the acquittal of Capt. Townsend, of the Slave Brig Echo. The trial took place at Key West, on the 19th ult.

Paul Morphy has been engaged to write Chess Articles, for the New York Ledger.

LOCAL SKETCHES.—No. I.

We propose to give a brief sketch of the places which may serve to interest tourists who may visit to Bethel during the summer months.

Take one of Chandler's teams early in the morning and ride up to West Bethel, and thence up Pleasant River valley till you reach Mason's Mill, in the town of Macon. This will take one hour. Leave your horse at a farm-house and set yourself to trout fishing. Ladies can fish with you near the mill. This road is level nearly all the way, and for invalids is a pleasant route. As you return, just stop your horse before you descend from Robert's Hill, and see what a picturesque look the village at Bethel has from this point. This is a good route for one day's excursion. Dress your trout and have them for your breakfast the next morning.

MECHANICAL FAIR AND EXHIBITION.—We have received a Circular from J. R. Milliken, Esq., Secretary of the Maine Charitable Mechanical Association, announcing their Fair and Exhibition, to be held in Portland, commencing the first day of September, in the new City Building now being erected. Their arrangements appear to have been made with a view to give unusual interest, and we trust they will have a successful exhibition. The Association has appropriated a sum sufficient to enable the Managers to conduct the Exhibition on a very liberal scale.

A Steam Engine of sufficient power will be provided, that machinery of all kinds may be seen in operation. Arrangements have also been made, so that articles intended for exhibition, from this section, can be transported on the G. T. R. R., at half Freight.

To insure desirable locations, early application should be made to J. R. Milliken, Secretary, Portland.

See advertisement of Electricifier, in another column.

We have received, and deposited in the Cabinet of the Academy, some specimens of Soil from the Prairies in Minnesota. Also a specimen of soil from the valley of the Androscoggin River. There is quite a contrast in color, but we can, with our manures, raise good crops enough.—We wish some friend would bring us some specimens of soil from the Aroostook to deposit with them. For these and other favors, we are indebted to Mr. FRED. I. BAKER, from Minnesota, now on a visit to his friends in Bethel.

"PITY THE POOR TAR," was an emblem we recollect of noticing some time since, at a Fair, holden for the benefit of the sailor. The recent operations of our Sub. renders it necessary that the last word of the above should be transposed, having, with malice aforethought, deprived of their lives, two enormous fellows of the rat species. Probably of the same family as that recently dispatched by friend Stearns, in Portland.

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.—Cyrrus W. Field leaves for London, in the Persia, in order to renew his labors in connection with the Company there, in the manufacture of a new Atlantic cable. It is expected that the cable will be completed, and laid during the summer of next year.

A NEW PAPER.—A prospectus has been issued for a new literary journal, to be published in Portland, weekly, at one dollar a year, to be called "The Maine Chronicle," devoted to literature, general education, science, and news, by James W. Pray, and Stuart A. Strout.

The Ladies are invited to call at the Store of Mr. Dresser, and examine his new style of Ladies' Cloths, just received. He has also a large and varied assortment of Dry and West India Goods and Groceries.

HARD TO BEAT.—Mr. J. D. Hazelden, of this town, has a Cow that produced, in one week, ending May 29, 235 lbs. of Milk, with no other food than grass. Such a cow is really worth having.

THE PIKE'S PEAK DRAMA.—The

scenes enacted on the plains of Kansas, in consequence of the explosion of the Pike's Peak humbug, are of the most tragic as well as touching character. The Postmaster at Denver City, says a correspondent of the N. Y. Evening Post, was accused, tried for and convicted of tampering with the mails, of opening letters, distributing false reports, purporting to be from the miners to their Eastern friends. A father was astonished by the arrival of his son, to whom he had written a true statement of the poverty of the mines, and his own intentions of returning, at the earliest opportunity. Upon inquiring the cause of his starting, the son showed him a letter purporting to be from himself, and instructing him to make arrangements to leave immediately for Denver City. The disguised handwriting was proved to be the Postmaster's, and the father charging him with the deed, he confessed its truth, and was shot dead on the spot. A well known contractor, living at St. Joseph, is also reported to have been shot by some infuriated victims of his falsehoods. A party going out had determined to return, on account of the discouraging reports brought by the reflex tide of emigration, when they met a man who had the hardihood to assert that he had four hundred dollars' worth of gold dust in his possession. He was offered an hundred dollars an ounce for all he would produce, and failing to exhibit it upon this inducement, they told him if he did not disgorge they would shoot him, upon which he confessed that he had none, never saw so much as a thimble full, and only made the statement to induce the emigrants to continue their journey. It is said that large meetings have been held by the miners, at which resolutions were passed, calling for the entire destruction of all the frontier towns which had been instrumental in raising the excitement, from St. Joseph to Kansas City. All editors are to be exterminated.

The returning emigrants are compelled to resort to all manner of expedients to raise money to pay their passage down the Missouri, or even to keep themselves from starving.—Many are working on the farms along the route for their board; some trying to get positions as drivers in the Salt Lake mail train, and others waiting for starvation. Cattle are sold at a merely nominal price, wagons burned for firewood, or left by the wayside, and pistols, rifles and arms of every description given for a meal of corn bread and bacon, and a drink of whiskey.

See advertisement of Electricifier, in another column.

A great fire occurred at Key West, on the 10th ult., raging for eight hours, reducing full one-half of the best portion of the city to smoldering ruins. There were no means at hand of throwing water, but by buckets, the place being unprovided with fire engines. This shows the necessity of every place having one or more engines, as in this case, thousands of dollars worth of property might have been saved by the aid of one.

The total amount of loss is not set down at $269,500, and the insurance at $95,800. The Insurance Companies of New York will lose nearly $100,000 by this fire.

Attention is directed to the advertisement of Mr. S. H. Chapman, in another column. Summer Tourists will find here the comforts of a home, and as pleasant a location as can be found in the vicinity. The best proof we have of the excellence of his table, is the jolly, rotund faces of his guests.

SELLING TO RETAIL PURCHASERS AT WHOLESALE PRICES.—For one garment, or a thousand, call at "Young America's" Clothing House, 76, Middle St., Portland, they will suit you if any one can.

[Kansas Correspondence.]

GARDNER K. T., May 17, 1869.

MR. EDITOR:—One of our Physicians recommended to one of his patients not long since to travel for his health, but not to Pike's Peak for the reason that he needed some of the comforts of life, in connection with the change. Living three months or six, in one of those ponderous covered wagons, that are made to contain the needful of man's wants both by night, and by day, and keeping time to the slow pace of an ox team, a journey of six hundred to a thousand miles, is the experience of many families within the past three months. Many of those are supplied with a few month's provision, as they go; wild game is abundant, so there will be no lack of meat. At the very best, with plenty of gold, and recent accounts bear a more cheering character, who is there to provide for such a rush into a new country, almost destitute of civilization? What a long distance to transport the flour, the corn meal, and the salt. West India goods, and the luxuries of milk and butter, will have to be dispensed with for a time at least. Many cows it is true have been driven there to find a home, but what would there be to the thousands of people already there? Many of these families will have to endure the drenching of the spring rains, to which the miners are looking forward with eager hopes, before a comfortable shelter will protect them. But I forbear the picture. If the pioneers of Eastern Kansas, have endured some privations in point of comforts of life, as well as luxuries in their first two or three years experience, here within a day's ride of the State, the sufferings of Western Kansas will bear no comparison.

ALLEGED ILL-TREATMENT OF U. S. SEAMEN.—The crew of the U. S. Frigate St. Lawrence, which arrived at Philadelphia several days since from a three years' cruise, have not yet been paid off, because, says the North American, about half the men refuse to receive their money from the ship, and have gone on to lay before the Secretary of the Navy a statement of very serious alleged grievances committed upon them. They state that revolting punishments have been inflicted upon them, that some of their heads were shaved, and that, while suffering from delirium, resulting from the broiling sun upon their unprotected heads, numbers of them jumped overboard. They also complain that they have been unjustly fined in sums which seriously diminish the amounts so hardly earned. For this reason about half the crew have gone in a body to Washington, to appeal to the Secretary for redress.

BELLADONNA IN SCARLET FEVER.—J. W. Hanton, one of the best physicians of Lowell, Mass., strongly advises the use of belladonna in scarlet fever. He says, "that belladonna is as sure a preventative of scarlet fever, as vaccination is of small pox, and (when properly used) a much safer one. I am satisfied, by numerous cases observed during the last five years, will soon become a settled fact. I would therefore suggest that you publish a proper rule for giving it, and thereby save many from a disease, which, under good treatment, would afflict them for several days, or under the common modes of treatment, several weeks, or a bad death."

One of the best successful writers on the subject advises to give on drops of the tincture to an adult three times a day for two or three days, and to children in proportion—a child a year old should take one drop in all, should be mixed with water and given in six or eight doses.

Given in this way, it can do no possible harm.

MR. LITTLEFIELD, at Wells, Me., the mother of the seducer at North Adams, has gone crazy in consequence of her son's conduct.

ITEMS.

The manufacturers of New England have decided to hold in Boston an exhibition and sale of their fabrics during the second week of July, under the auspices and with the co-operation of the New England Society for the Promotion of Manufactures and the Mechanic Arts. The city government have offered the use of Faneuil Hall, for the purpose, and the Society have secured other halls and places of deposit. The variety and amount of goods will be greater than has ever been offered for sale in this country.

A correspondent of a Minnesota paper, writing from Pike's Peak, says that the miners are very much discouraged in that region, from being compelled to dig through a solid vein of silver, four feet thick, before they can reach the gold. That will do.

The Maine Convention of Universalists is to hold its annual session in Bangor, the 28th, 29th and 30th of June. The Democratic State Convention will be held on the latter day.

The American barque White Cloud recently arrived at Greytown from New York, and reported having seen a reef about eighty miles from Panta Arenas, which was not laid down upon the charts. H. B. After a week's absence she returned, and reported having encountered in the position named by the Yankee captain, an enormous school of fish, extending several miles.

The Congregational Society at Winsted, Ct., at a recent meeting, were talking about settling a young man fresh from a theological school as pastor of their society, but a farmer said, "For his part, he was tired of breaking steers,"—so the steer preacher wasn't settled.

The solicitude which I feel in the receipt of the COURIER is second only to that felt on the receipt of private communications from my friends in Bethel. Although your paper does not reach me until a week after it is published, yet its pages are permeated with the same avidity that a hungry man might be supposed to devour a meal of rich victuals after waiting a long time for them to be prepared. I will not enumerate the many good qualities which compose the COURIER, but above all others its Neutrality in politics enhances its value greatly in my estimation, chiefly I presume, because the papers published in this place are so very abusive in their language, upon political topics. I trust that all your patrons may take the same interest in the COURIER, (Editor-wise) that its Editor does, to make it useful and interesting to its readers.

THE CROPS.—The New York Courier and Enquirer concludes a long article on the crops of the coming season, as follows:
"Taking into consideration the various accounts from different parts of the country, we have reasons for believing, first, that if the promise of plenty is fulfilled, the yield in all branches of agriculture will be beyond that ever known before in this country; and second, that the West is not as poor in stocks of wheat and corn as supposed, and by no means in a critical situation. The entire crop beyond consumption will therefore be available for export."

The solicitude which I feel in the receipt of the COURIER is second only to that felt on the receipt of private communications from my friends in Bethel. Although your paper does not reach me until a week after it is published, yet its pages are permeated with the same avidity that a hungry man might be supposed to devour a meal of rich victuals after waiting a long time for them to be prepared. I will not enumerate the many good qualities which compose the COURIER, but above all others its Neutrality in politics enhances its value greatly in my estimation, chiefly I presume, because the papers published in this place are so very abusive in their language, upon political topics. I trust that all your patrons may take the same interest in the COURIER, (Editor-wise) that its Editor does, to make it useful and interesting to its readers.

We are enjoying the great Luxury of Strawberries and cream, as also of green peas, and all other spring vegetables. Wishing you all the prosperity which your richly merit, I remain your humble Subscriber. C. L. D.

THE CROPS.—The New York Courier and Enquirer concludes a long article on the crops of the coming season, as follows:
"Taking into consideration the various accounts from different parts of the country, we have reasons for believing, first, that if the promise of plenty is fulfilled, the yield in all branches of agriculture will be beyond that ever known before in this country; and second, that the West is not as poor in stocks of wheat and corn as supposed, and by no means in a critical situation. The entire crop beyond consumption will therefore be available for export."

proceeded to open the case for the defense, while hundreds were listening with intense interest to hear every word that fell from his lips. In order to understand the bearings of the evidence for the defense, it will be necessary to give one or two extracts from his plea. He said that he should prove beyond any doubt that the individual who made the tracks leading through Heathcoat's room could not have been the prisoner, that it must have been another individual who in all probability John Wadley—the son-in-law of the deceased—and that the doctor saw passing through the room and the one that hid the knife in the wall—was in all probability this same John Wadley dressed in the prisoner's clothes. If space would permit, we should be very glad to give a few extracts from the able and thrilling plea of the prisoner's counsel. We cannot do so however without extending our report of the trial to an unreasonable length.

The first witness for the defense was the village shoemaker, who testified that he had examined the bloody tracks leading out of the room of the deceased into that of the prisoner, and fitted boots into them, and found that the individual who made them must have worn "sizers." Heathcoat's boots however, he testified were all "eleven."

The next witness was Squire Roberts servant girl, who testified that the morning after the murder, she found the back window open which the night before she had fastened down. She also testified that a few weeks before the murder, Wadley—(Squire Roberts son in law)—had asked her covertly where her master kept his private papers. It should be remembered here that the wife of Wadley was Squire Roberts daughter, and although he had made a will disinheriting her, yet if that will could be destroyed, she would be his sole heir, and thus the whole of his immense estate would come into the hands of Wadley. The servant girl also testified that the morning after the murder, she found the place in which Mr Roberts kept his private papers broken open, and the papers pulled over and many of them opened.

The next witness was a Jeweller, from a neighboring city, who testified that a few days previous to the murder a man had called at his store and purchased a dirk knife. He said that he should identify the man that bought it if he should see him. Wadley was then brought forward in company with a number of other individuals and he pointed out Wadley, as the man. He was then asked if he carried any name upon the knife. He said that he did—that he was ordered to carve the name of Heathcoat upon it. He said that his knives were were peculiarly constructed and that he could identify them any where that he saw them. The knife found in the prisoners room being shown him, he said that was the knife which Wadley bought.

Another witness testified that there was a shower about 12 o'clock the night of the murder—and that on going upon the grounds of the deceased the next morning, he saw the tracks of a wagon leading from the house, which must have been made after the shower.

The Defense next brought upon the stand a miserable inebriate, on seeing whom, Wadley who had been in the court room throughout the trial, bounded from his seat and rushed toward the door. He was however seized by the excited crowd and it was well for his personal safety that the officers took him in their possession. The witness then proceeded to testify that a few days previous to the murder, Wadley had come to him and offered him a large sum of money if he would make way with the old man, and get possession of his will.

The District Attorney, here arose and said that no one could be more astonished than himself at the remarkable developments which had just taken place, and that he should no longer er ceased against the conclusive evidence which the defense had produced.

The Judge then briefly charged the Jury, who without leaving their seats rendered a verdict of "Not Guilty." The walls of the court room, then echoed, and resounded with the shouts of the multitude, who had listened with breathless interest throughout the trial. The news of Heathcoat's acquittal, which soon spread throughout the community caused general joy. The facts which the defense had brought to light left no doubt in the minds of the community of Wadley's guilt, while they regained for Heathcoat, the confidence and respect of all the people. Wadley, was subsequently tried for the murder, and being found guilty, suffered the extreme penalty of the law.

THE CURCULIO.

Now is the time to look out for the Curculio, just as the dried petals leave the plum, not before, and when they are no larger than small peas. But how shall I know him? Just watch your plums every morning and when you see a circular cut through the skin of a plum, you may know the fellow is on hand. Just take your lantern in the evening, and watch carefully and you will see a black, piratical looking fellow on a plum, or crawling along some limb ready to do his mischief. His did I say? No, it is the female that does it all. She has an elephant like trunk in form, on the end of which is a cutting instrument with which she makes the incision, whirling round and deposits an egg in the cut and proceeds to another, until she has laid her litter. A worm is soon hatched out that penetrates the plum, causing it to wither and die.

How to get rid of them? Many persons jar the trees in the evening and early in the morning and collect them on sheets. They act as if dead when disturbed. Smoking the trees with leather, syringing on the trees lime water, and other substances have been tried with partial success. I am going to try a decoction of tansy. But few insects will touch that plant. I hope that every one especially those connected with the Bethel Farmer's Club will watch their habits and exercise their ingenuity for a remedy against their ravages. N. T. T.

A French priest, having invitations to dine every day in one week, and anxious to get rid of the duties of the confessional for that time, gave notice of the following divisions of labor: "On Monday," said he, "I will confess the liars; on Tuesday, the misers; on Wednesday, the slanders; on Thursday, the thieves; on Friday, the libertines; on Saturday, the women of evil life." It is needless to add that he was enabled to eat his dinners without neglect of his spiritual duties.

Young gentlemen afflicted with the Pike's Peak fever, will be interested in the following statement from a reliable gentleman in the new El Dorado, of the manner of gathering gold in the new diggings. A man takes a frame work of heavy timbers, built like a stone boat, the bottom of which is composed of heavy iron rasps. This frame work is hoisted to the top of the Peak, and the man gets in and slides down the mountain. As it goes down, the rasps on the bottom of the frame scrape off the gold in immense shavings, which curl up on to the machine, and by the time the man gets to the bottom nearly a ton of gold is following him. This is the common manner of gathering it.

A well known miser recently died in New Jersey, leaving a large sum of money, which will go to his nephews. He was eighty years old and died with the firm belief that, after some years of slumber, he should return to this earth a young man, when he is to receive his property with interest. His heirs seem perfectly willing to take the money on those terms.
